Typically we work with clients who want to focus on running their own successful business and would prefer a specialist to look after their accounts or bookkeeping. I've heard of small business owners who are worried about missing deadlines for payments or sending out invoices late or maybe not at all. Some clients used to be bogged down with manual processes like chasing outstanding invoices or found their accounts process was patchy, time-consuming or complicated. After 25 years of experience gained from working within construction, charities Small business Accountant specialising in helping the construction industry, micro and small business, Production, Hospitality, Limited companies, personal tax and Charities. Other clients work with me because doing it themselves used to cost them more in tax anyway. We specialise in getting the numbers right, so others can focus on running their business and know that their month-end and year-end process, won't be a nightmare any more.
